LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION

Mr. Mark Roberts
330 S. Campus Ave.
Oxford, Ohio 45056

Dear Mr. Roberts:

During the Spring semester, 1981, a group of very energetic students has formed a local organization with the ultimate goal of becoming a Delta Sigma Pi chapter. The initial efforts of the group have been very encouraging. Officers have been elected, committees formed, meeting dates established, and programs arranged. All of the necessary ingredients for a successful organization are rapidly emerging.

It is my belief that the local student leadership will successfully accomplish all of their current plans and be prepared to request a Delta Sigma Pi chapter during the Fall semester, 1981.

I am extremely pleased to be able to recommend the local organization as a potential chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ben Wolfenberger, Executive Director

Dear Mr. Wolfenberger:

Students interested in establishing an Delta Sigma Pi Chapter at Southwest Missouri State University contacted me to ask if I would write you to support their application for establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at SMSU; I am very glad to do so.

I am informed that our local group has already had several organizational meetings, has publicized attempts to create a chapter, held mass meetings, and has elected tentative officers. In my opinion, the students with the aid of several faculty from the SMSU Business School, have made substantial progress in just one semester.

As I was elected to Delta Sigma Pi as a faculty member at Oklahoma City University in 1968, it is very pleasing to see this attempt ot establish a chapter here as we have a large number of well-qualified business students who have the interest and ability to carry on appropriate activities of an excellent chapter. It is my understanding that Dean Williams has been aiding the SMS students in their organizational efforts.

As a member we are always willing to aid another member and promote the fraternity. I hope you and your brothers at Oxford will look favorable upon the SMSU application and that a chapter can be established in the fall semester of 1981. If you would like to contact me personally for any further information I would be very happy to talk with you or answer any questions.

Very sincerely,

Dear Mr. Wolfenberger

I was initiated as a member of Delta Sigma Pi at the University of Nebraska - Omaha in the mid 1950's. When my son asked me to help him and the other students at Southwest Missouri State University to get a chapter established on the SMSU Campus, I was glad to offer my services and have attended one organizational meeting.

When my son told me, and I saw first-hand, of all the organizational activities that the students and faculty advisors have accomplished this semester, I was amazed at the rapid progress with the brief time available to them. My son informed me that these students held several other organizational meetings in order to inform the business college students about Delta Sigma Pi and have elected officers to get everything organized so they could get a chapter established at SMSU. I believe that there is a sufficient number of interested students at SMSU to have a well-rounded list of activities and to be an excellent chapter.

As an alumni of Delta Sigma Pi, I will be happy to help in any way to get a chapter established here at SMSU and I hope that you and the rest of the Executive Board will grant the application for a chapter charter for SMSU in the fall semester of 1981. If I can be of any further assistance to you, please contact me.

HISTORY

Main body of faint, illegible text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

Established in 1906 as The Missouri State Normal School, Fourth District, the school has operated at its present location until the present time under the original name and three subsequent name changes; 1919 - Southwest Missouri State Teachers College, 1945 - Southwest Missouri State College, and 1972 - Southwest Missouri State University. The original school, Springfield Normal, was a private teachers training and business school located near the corner of Cherry and Pickwick. The cornerstone of that building was recently discovered in the backyard of a house in that area and moved to its present location on a pedestal in the front quadrangle.

For years the campus was approximately 40 acres bounded by National, Grand, Kings, and Madison. It was a wooded area with large elm, catalpa, and ash trees. The old streetcar line used to have a "turnaround" at the west side of the campus, just west of Carrington Hall. During the 1920's the Science Building (Siceluff) and the Education Building (Hill) were added. In 1940 McDonald Arena was built and the 1950's saw the addition of the Old Library, Campus Union, Wells House (small part), Ellis, Karls, and Pummill Halls. In the 1950's Missouri passed a 75 million dollar bond issue to build public buildings, and SMSU benefited from those funds during those non-inflationary times.

As the enrollment really began to increase in the 1960's and 1970's, the campus expanded to the North with residence halls, the clinic-bookstore, and the Laboratory School, and to the West with additional classroom buildings and the central storage facility. Presently, the campus consists of 125 acres with a 125 acre experimental farm on the southwest edge of the city, the State Fruit Experiment Station at Mountain Grove, and the West Plains Campus at West Plains.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Seven years after the State Normal School at Springfield began in 1907, it was offering its first business classes. Bookkeeping and Penmanship were taught under the Art Department. SMS didn't get its first business department until the Department of Commerce was created in 1918. No majors were offered, but the curriculum was expanded to include typing, shorthand, and farm accounts.

Between 1918 and 1954, tuition had increased from $11 to $30 and the Department of Commerce had become the Department of Business Administration and Secretarial Science. However, by 1956, the name was shortened to the Department of Business.

In 1973, the present School of Business was created, including four departments--Accounting, Finance and General Business, Management and Marketing, and Office Administration and Business Education. Dr. Duane Meyer, president of SMS, said the School of Business was needed because of the unusual growth of new majors in the field and the growth of the university's teaching faculty to handle the class load. At that time, 1600 students were majoring in business, a full 1/6th of the student population.

In 1980, the data processing and statistics classes were combined to form an Information Systems Management Department. This department was organized to educate the rapidly growing number of people entering management careers in the computer data processing field.

Out of over 15,000 students at SMS for the 1981-82 school year, 3,650 are majoring in the business field. Approximately 900 are majoring in accounting, 1000 in management and marketing, 400 in data processing, 450 in office administration and business education, and 900 in finance and general business.

Leader of the School of Business is Dean Ralph W. Willians. Faculty in the School of Business include 82 full-time members and 40 part-time members.

CARRINGTON HALL

Built in 1909 as Academic Hall, this was the only building on campus for years. The auditorium was added in 1912 with the gymnasium underneath it. In 1945, the name was changed to Administration Building and was more recently changed to its present name in honor of the first president of the College, W.T. Carrington. The building has housed classrooms, the Library, the gym, the bookstore, and other facilities. It is presently used almost entirely for administrative offices and various student services.

ELLIS HALL

Completed in 1959 this building was, for years, the only building on campus named for a person. It was named to honor Dr. Roy Ellis who served as president of the college from 1926 to 1961. At the time of his retirement, Dr. Ellis had been a college president longer than any other person in the United States. The building houses the Department of Art and Music.

HAMMONS FOUNTAINS

When local developer John Q. Hammons saw how the new library would be sited north of Temple Hall, he offered the University enough money to build a beautiful set of fountains in the area. Lombard Street was abandoned by the city and deeded to the University for the mall and fountains. The fountains, first turned on in August of 1980, are modeled after those at Ceasar's Palace in Las Vegas.

HILL HALL

This building, named for former President Clyde Hill, was completed in 1923 as the Education Building. The names engraved above the third floor windows are those of famous people in education throughout history. As the Education Building, it housed Greenwood Laboratory School with a gymnasium on the west end of the ground floor and a swimming pool on the east end. When the new Laboratory School was completed in 1966, the building was remodeled into a classroom building with the gym area being made into two lecture halls and the swimming pool into a firing kiln for the Art Department. This building now houses the Departments of Educational Administration and Special Programs, Elementary Education, History, Political Science and Philosophy, Psychology, and Secondary Education and Foundations.

PUMMILL HALL

The Music Cottage used to stand where the Classroom Building was built in 1957. Later the building was named in honor of Dr. Lawrence Pummill, former head of the Department of Mathematics. The building now houses the Departments of Mathematics, Religious Studies, Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work.

SICELUFF HALL

First built as the Science Building in 1928, the building was extensively remodeled in 1972 after the sciences were moved to Temple Hall. Named in honor of Dr. Harry Siceluff, long-time teacher of English and Education, the building now houses the Departments of Finance and General Business, Home Economics, and Management and Marketing. Old timers say that a wet-weather spring used to start just west of this building and run south to Grand. This sometimes flooded the gym in what is now Hill Hall until a drainage system was built.

TEMPLE HALL

This award-winning building was completed in 1971 and houses the Departments of Chemistry, Geography and Geology, Life Sciences, and Physics. Named in honor of Mr. Allen Temple, long-time head of the Science Department, the building includes lecture halls, laboratories, an electron microscope, and a greenhouse.

Other buildings located on campus are:

CAMPUS UNION - The original Student Center was built in 1951 with two major additions being made as the enrollment increased. The area where the northern-most three story section of the building is now was, for many years, the campus tennis courts. This building was built, and is used, for student non-academic purposes. The cafeteria in this building serves students living in Wells and Freud-enbarger Houses.

CRAIG HALL - This building, named for Dr. Virginia Craig who was head of the English and Speech Department for over 40 years, was built in 1967. The area where the building is located was the playground for the Greenwood students until the Laboratory School was built at its present location. The patio at the north side of Craig is used for the Tent Theatre in the summer. The building houses the Departments of Art and Music.

HAMMONS STUDENT CENTER - Built entirely from student funds and a $1 million gift from John Q. Hammons, this $5 ½ million structure was completed in 1976 at which time it was dedicated by Bob Hope. The building houses 5 playing courts, 6 handball courts, a swimming pool, a rifle range, and several special purpose areas for recreation and athletic training. It will seat more than 8,000 for basketball and more than 10,000 for concerts.

KEMPER HALL - The Industrial Education and Technology Department was located "temporarily" in what is now the Art Annex from 1947 until this new building was completed in 1975. Named in honor of the first head of this department, the building has excellent facilities for the various areas of construction, drafting and design, electricity-electronics, industrial management, metals, printing, and woods.

LIBRARY - This new $7 million building was first occupied in the fall of 1980. In addition to the library holdings and Department of Library Science it houses an extensive map collection and the Educational Media Center. The building features extensive student study areas and the "open-stack" system of filing.

McDONALD ARENA - The Department of Health and Physical Education is housed in this building which was built with WPA labor in 1940. It is named in honor of Mr. Andrew J. McDonald, long-time head of the HPE Department. Until Hammons Student Center was built, basketball games were played in the arena which seats some 3,300 people.

CHEEK HALL - This building was first built in 1955 and additions have been made as enrollment increased. The building previously housed the library. Extensive remodeling was done on the building in 1980-81 to house the Departments of Accounting, Economics, Information Systems Management, and Office Administration and Business Education. It also houses the Computer Center and a modern computer laboratory.

In the Spring of 1981, Dean Ralph Williams of the School of Business of Southwest Missouri State University was contacted by the Iota Nu Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, Northeast Missouri State University. Dean Williams, an alumni of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, Gamma Zeta Chapter, took it upon himself to talk to the Business Advisory Council on the Springfield Campus to see if there was interest in a Business Fraternity. Joe Tesson and Ron Tinsley, both students on the University Campus, held a meeting to see if business students would participate. At the next meeting, held March 19, 1981, officers were elected, they were:

President	Mike D. Schonberger
Senior Vice President	Jeff W. Ohmes
Vice President for Pledge Education	Mark Foster
Vice President for Professional Activities	Cathy Hercules
Secretary	Juanita R. Knipp
Treasurer	Susan M. Lundberg
Chancellor	Kevin R. Miquelon
Chapter Efficiency Index Chairman	Jack Mathes
Advisor to the President	Brett T. Curtis

From this time, both officers and members have met on a regular basis in order to further develop a possible chapter on the Southwest Missouri State University Campus. The temporary name Sigma Mu Sigma was adopted for the organization.

On April 14, 1981, the first professional activity took place. Dean Ralph Williams of the School of Business spoke on the role of a Delta Sigma Pi, and talked on setting goals as a petitioning group. He also mentioned the faculty alumni who were willing to offer their help. In the same meeting, Harry Curtis, Industrial Relation Director at Litton Industry, spoke. Mr. Curtis pointed out the benefits of Delta Sigma Pi, and the benefit of exposure to other people in the business field. Two weeks later, April 28, 1981, a petition was signed by the officers and members in order to petition for a Chapter Charter. The last meeting for the semester was May 12, 1981 in which organizing for the next semester was discussed.

September 15, 1981, the first meeting for 1981-82 school year was held in Cheek Hall, room 102. President Mike Schonberger presided. Senior vice president, Jeff Ohmes, vice president for pledge education, Mark Foster, vice president for professional activities, Cathy Hercules, secretary, Juanita Knipp, treasurer, Sue Lundberg, Chancellor, Kevin Miquelon, Chapter Efficiency Index Chairman, Jack Mathes, Advisor to the President, Brett Curtis and Chapter Advisor, Dean Ralph Williams, were present along with interested prospective members.

Eleven days later, September 26, 1981, formal pledging was held at our regular meeting place. Seventy-five members were pledged by Grand President, Michael R. Mallonee. Six chapters were present: Iota Nu, Beta Epsilon, Iota Omicron, Alpha Beta, Beta Chi, and Gamma Epsilon. Also present were three Alumni groups: St. Louis Alumni Club, Gateway Alumni Club, and Kansas City Alumni Club.

The Sigma Mu Sigma colony organized a carwash to raise funds for the group. Much enthusiasm was expressed, and the function was a success. Another activity in our colony took place on September 29, 1981. Alan A. MacDougall, from the Career Information Placement Office, spoke. He informed us of the services provided in the placement office. Many more functions are in the planning stages.
